

State nomination migration program 2018 process and requirements

Candidates may be nominated by the Western Australian Government under two streams:

- General; or
- Graduate.

Process for all candidates

- Submit an Expression of Interest on the Department of Home Affairs' SkillSelect database (homeaffairs.gov.au) and indicate the candidate is seeking either nomination from 'Western Australia' or 'any state or territory'.
- Meet the Department of Home Affairs' eligibility requirements for the Skilled Nominated visa (subclass 190) or Skilled Regional (Provisional) visa (subclass 489¹).
- The points test pass mark is the Department of Home Affairs' minimum number of points required to receive an invitation for a visa. The pass mark is currently 65 points.
Not all Expressions of Interest that meet the points test pass mark will receive an invitation to apply for State nomination.
- Where a candidate's Expression of Interest indicates that the candidate meets the State's minimum requirements (see below), the candidate may be invited to apply for State nomination.
- Invitations to apply for the State nomination General stream will be issued to those with the highest ranking Expression of Interest by points score, subject to:
 - » occupation ceilings;
 - » meeting the State nomination General stream minimum requirements; and
 - » meeting the Department of Home Affairs' points test pass mark.
- Invitations to apply for the State nomination Graduate stream will be issued to those with the highest ranking Expression of Interest by (in order of priority):
 - » completed a PhD² or Masters qualification in Western Australia;
 - » completed an Honours degree or other higher degree³ in Western Australia;
 - » completed a Bachelor degree in Western Australia;
 - » the highest amount of Australian work experience in the nominated or closely related occupation;
 - » highest level of English language proficiency; and
 - » highest points score.subject to:
 - » occupation ceilings;
 - » meeting the State nomination Graduate stream minimum requirements; and
 - » meeting the Department of Home Affairs' points test mark.

- If an invitation is issued, the applicant has 28 days in which to apply for State nomination and successfully complete the online research tool during the application process.
- The information provided in the Expression of Interest will be examined and the State nomination application will be assessed against the State nomination requirements for the relevant stream.
An invitation to apply for State nomination does not guarantee nomination.
- If State nomination is approved, Migration Services will nominate the Expression of Interest in SkillSelect, which will enable the applicant to receive an invitation from the Department of Home Affairs to lodge a visa application.
